PREFACE.

The tenth annual volume of Atlanta's City Directory is issued as early as usual, for 1886, notwithstanding local and general delays and misfortunes which were calculated to postpone issue at least a month. The gain in names is very considerable, despite the croakings heard on every hand the past fall and winter. We have 21,000 names, and if one name represents three souls in the population, we apparently have over 60,000 people for Atlanta. The use of three as a multiple is the very lowest that should be used; we have clearly proven this in the canvass of the past three years by actually counting the inhabitants and noting the proportion of names to population. Most cities use a multiple of four, which would be too high for this work, where we make so clean a canvass. Still a great many people dodge the directory, as well as everything else.

The want of systematic numbers on the streets well nigh ruins the first canvass, and necessitates an additional one, but still impairs the usefulness of a directory. We hope the coming year the city will be re-numbered.

Its duties are to fix the local rates to be charged by the various railroads in the State on freight and passengers, and to furnish rules and regulations to govern the railroad. Its first action was to fix a standard tariff for all the roads, which went into effect May 1, 1880, but upon proper showing by any road that such standard was too low, the commission increased the standard rates by allowing an additional percentage. The passenger rates were five and six cents per mile on nearly every road in the State. By order of the commission the fares on all the long or important roads and branches were reduced to three (3) cents a mile. This board is not an advisory, but a mandatory one, whose powers are to regulate railroads and railroad rates. The secretary is elected by the commissioners. The salary of each commissioner is $2,500 per annum: of the secretary, $1,200

ATLANTA DUPLEX DIRECTORY

(VOL. X.—1886.)

Arranged by Streets and Nunbers, with name of Occupant.

EXPLANATION.

Reference to this department will show the streets, avenues, etc., in alphabetical order, with the intersecting streets and numbers. Many corners are destitute of numbers, which defect should be remedied.

The Union Depot is the central point of the city. The following are the central streets from which others are numbered, viz: Decatur and Marietta running east and west, and Peachtree, West Peachtree and Whitehall running north and south,

The system of NUMBERING is altogether INADEQUATE to the wants and convenience of OUR progressive city; and should be met with some prompt and efficient remedy. Odd numbers are on the right, and even numbers on the left in commencing each street.

Mr. Derry has received over $500 in cash dividends since his policy was "paid up." He will continue to receive dividends during life and $5,000 will be paid his heirs at death. No other Company in Georgia can show equal results. Many gentlemen in Atlanta hold "paid up" policies in Northwestern upon which they are receiving regularly their annual cash dividends.

OUR CARD.

IN presenting this, our first Directory of Atlanta—number XI. of the regular series—we devote more space to an "introductory" than is usually embodied in the preface to a publication of this nature, for the reason that the circumstances under which the work has been conducted, were peculiar, and at times, very embarrassing.

During the canvass we announced through the daily press and by circulars, what we believe will bear repetition here. Years ago we were associated in Directory work with the former publisher of the Atlanta book, and so long as he continued his publications, a sense of honor (something very rare among Directory publishers), prevented us disturbing him, but at his death we considered the field open to any one who might choose to occupy it. We chose to do so, and entered the field in May, 1886, but soon realized that we would have opposition. Apprehending a close contest, we commenced work determined to win at any cost, and our opponents finally withdrew leaving us sole occupants of the ground, but not until the business community had become so unsettled over the possibility of two Directories as to seriously retard our work and add greatly to its cost; but we feel sure the excellence of our publication will make ample amends for the delay, and we hope our efforts to please will meet with such encouragement in future that we may retrieve any loss sustained on this volume.

Ordinarily, a Directory of this city should issue within ninety days from commencement of the canvass, but with this volume it was impossible to proceed with such celerity. At the very outset we were met with a lack of confidence, among business men, in our ability and our honesty of purpose to improve upon the inferior works so long endured.

Another serious drawback was the disposition of so many to withhold their information as a means of evading a local law levying a street tax upon all male residents over a certain age. This obstacle we have never been able entirely to overcome, and no doubt we have failed to secure the names, and residences, of a few, but it should be charged against us as our misfortune, not our fault. We certainly made every honorable effort possible to supply these omissions, and only regret there is no law compelling the giving of information of all that is proper to incorporate in a work of such great public benefit as a Directory.

We also found a system of house numbering so incomplete that the canvassers were frequently sorely puzzled in locating intelligently. This defective system is a disgrace to a city which, in every other particular, is clearly abreast with the times. It is a matter calling for immediate attention of the municipal authorities, and should certainly be rectified before work is begun on the next Directory. In consideration of the delay attending the issuance of this volume, our next canvass will not begin until the fall of 1887. Meanwhile, we shall make it our business to keep the subject of re-numbering before the proper authorities.

Following our careful system of census-taking—enumerating the occupants of every house, large or small—we have no hesitancy in saying that the tabulated statement (to be found opp. p. 8), is as nearly the correct population of Atlanta as it is possible to obtain. We are aware that this will be a disappointment to some, but we cannot "go behind the returns." The prevailing custom with many Directory publishers is to count all names using a a multiple (usually 3), and then estimate the population. Our method is to make an actual house to house enumeration, and if we still fall short of expectations, it is no fault of ours. It will be seen we give the total "entries" in the book, deduct all firms, companies, etc., showing number of individual names, which are divided into white and colored, and the census added. A comparison with the Directory for 1886 will show a falling off in names according to their report, which fact is due to the omission from this volume of the names of hundreds of females and children (chiefly, colored), not properly finding place in a Directory. We have made it a point to insert the names of females only when found at the head of households or engaged in some leading occupation.

Our work, for the present, is ended. It has been unusually trying, but we are satisfied with the result, and trust our patrons will be. We place the book before the public to stand upon its merits. No publication is exposed to the same unfavorable criticisms as a City Directory; and it is difficult to understand why, after weeks of careful, conscientious toil and the expenditure of hundreds of dollars, the Directory publisher meets with ten complaints to one word of praise.

In conclusion, we wish to offer sincere thanks for the many courtesies received at the hands of numerous friends. The patronage extended has not been commensurate with the time and money expended, but we hope our initial number is of such a character as to gain the confidence of the people, and induce them to retain for us a liberal support for future annual editions.

Very respectfully,

NORWOOD, CONNELLY & CO.,
Publishers.
